OpSource Named One of ASPnews Top 25 Enablers

Industry News Site Recognizes OpSource for Influence in SaaS Industry

SANTA CLARA, Calif., – January 31, 2007 – OpSource, the SaaS delivery experts, announced today that ASPnews has named OpSource to its top 25 enablers for 2007.

According to ASPnews, OpSource is one of 25 companies that, in the view of its editors, are the most influential software or infrastructure providers for the ASP, Software-as-a-Service (SaaS), Web Services, Service-Oriented Architecture (SOA), and Utility Computing industries. ASPnews included companies that met the following criteria:

- Have a substantial and active customer base of providers
- Be active in their support and promotion of network-based applications and services
- Invest in innovation in the online delivery of software-based services
- Be recognized as a leader by others within the industry

OpSource CEO Treb Ryan said, “Our selection recognizes the unique and significant role that OpSource plays in the world of Software as a Service. It validates our position as the only vendor that offers a complete solution designed specifically for web-based service delivery using a customer-focused on-demand pricing model that drives shared success and reduces risk and cost. Our team has developed tools specifically built to deliver web-based services and our depth of expertise in SaaS, web services and SOA contributes greatly to our customers’ success. I’m proud of our team and honored that OpSource is among such a distinguished group of companies on the ASPnews Top 25 list."
